

Dear Friend,

Yay! Our teams in Uganda are creating sustainable, systemic change.

Vincent, Doreen, and their colleagues are creating a radically different future for people who have been trapped in a broken system. For the first time, hundreds of people in the villages are feeling healthy, happy, safe and hopeful.

Big Deal #1:

Unless this is the first time you've heard from us, you know that 10 Ugandan professionals have transformed two Scooby-Doo vans into mobile medical clinics. They work around the clock to save lives in six villages comprised of 8,000 people. They are truly heroes. We cannot imagine a better, more dedicated team of people who love their work, love each other, and love the people in the villages. Their stories are thrilling.

Big Deal #2:

Our brand-new micro-business team is coming together. Hold on for dear life because in a year or two, all of us will witness a tsunami of entrepreneurs lifting themselves and their families out of poverty. Godfrey is our leader. Juliet is an experienced micro-business leader from Kampala who is coaching Godfrey. For 30 years, Ralph Metzger has inspired thousands of people to start businesses in developing countries all over the world. He and I will be in Bundibugyo next month to help our team create a sustainable, scalable system for moving entire villages away from the brink of imminent financial disaster. We are justifiably excited.

Big Deal #3:

The time has come to build a community center, a unique and functional campus where our teams can teach and model human flourishing.

I wish you could see with your own eyes the absolutely beautiful 3.17 acres of land donors blessed us with. This is the place where the community will gather for sports events, movie nights and classes. It will be a secure location to store the medical vans, medications, and equipment, and our medical and micro-business teams will assemble in the offices and conference rooms to pray and plan. Pregnant moms will receive birthing kits and attend classes on pre-natal care. After dark, families will huddle up and enjoy an outdoor movie in the amphitheater.

Here is an opportunity:

- You can sponsor a room in the Community Center. Tell us which room you want to sponsor and whose name you want on the sponsorship plaque. The Center has 22 rooms; seven are already sponsored. Check out the floor plan and the sponsorship levels below.
- If you want to help in a different way, you can sponsor as many bricks as you like for $5.00 each. The entire building will be constructed of 50,000 special bricks that notch together like Legos. Each brick you sponsor represents that portion of the entire building project.
- You can send the full amount of your pledge now, or you can honor it over a period of up to 12 months.

Here is the plan:

- Take a moment to look over the options below.
- Choose the scope of your impact.
- Let us know which room or how many bricks you'd like to sponsor!

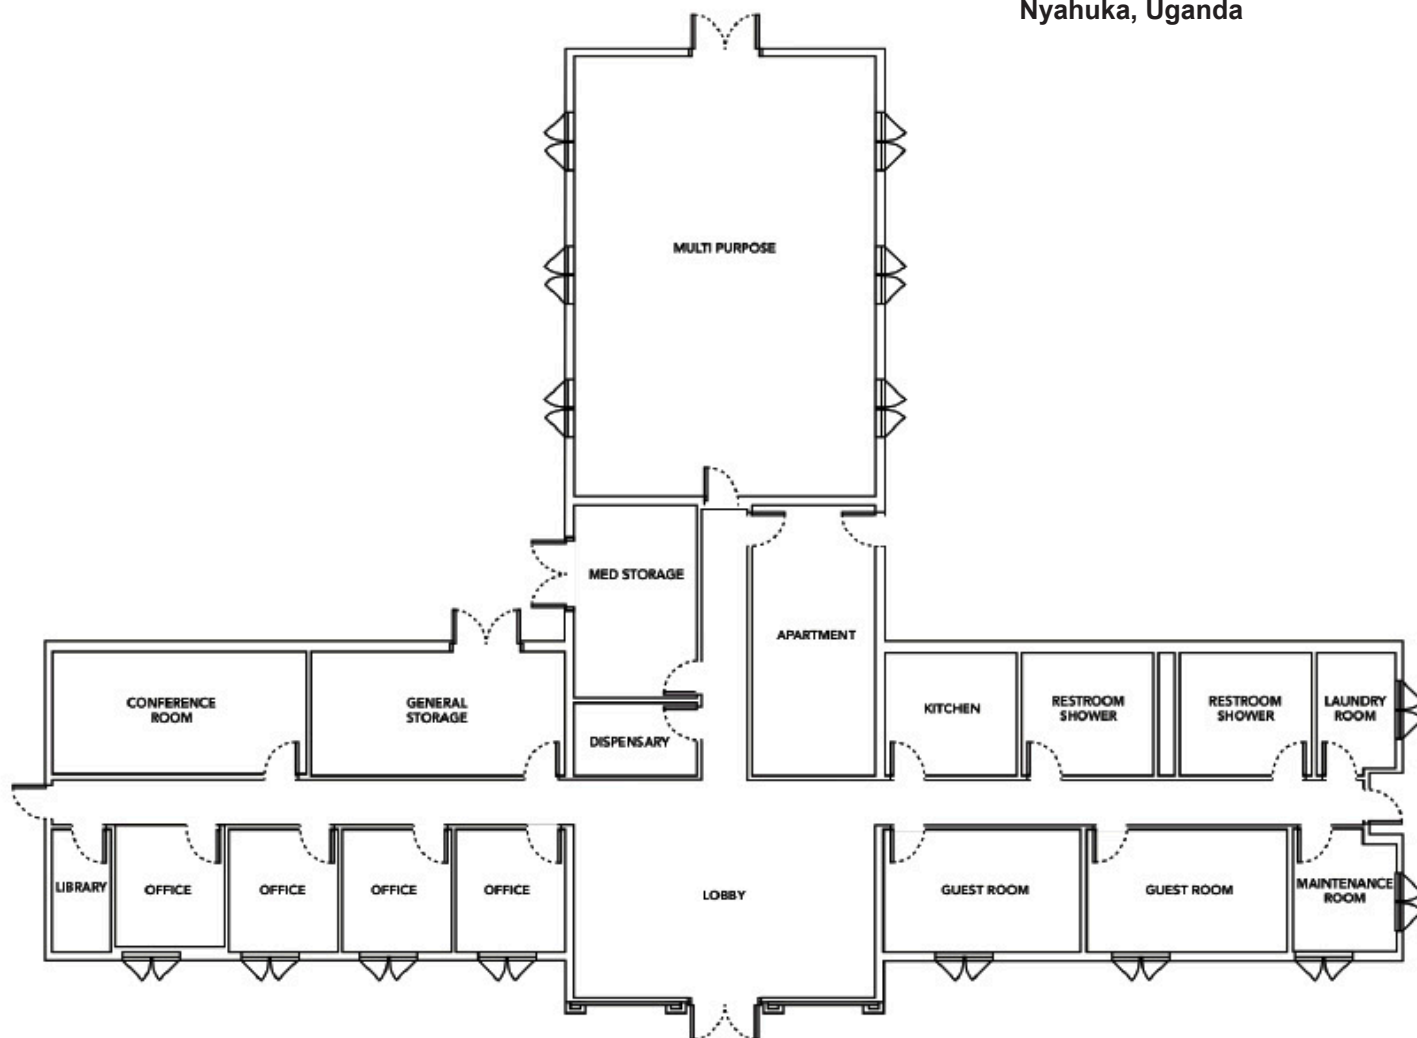

Thank you!
